

Parados

A man with greed eating him up like cancer
Lost in his ignorance
His mind and heart cold as stone
Woken up by the death of the ones he loves the most
Once a father and a husband now only a lonely man full of guilt and regret
His life is now nothing and melts away from society
Wishes that he could turn back time
Now he is left like a lonesome dog out in the street

Hoping for acceptance
Stuck in a cold hearted jail cell
Until released for his innocence
Or in jail to rot away
Grief scavenging and eating the last bit of his cold heart
Not accepting the ones who love him
Eager to find the truth
Tired of unhappiness being thrown at him
The filth of guilt was getting dirtier
Could he prove himself good
Before...Before...
He is injected with death